MILE	KM	ITEM	SUMMARY	MILE	KM
0.0	0.0	Junction of California State Highway #62	Community of Vidal Junction. South via California highway #95 to communities of Vidal, CA - Blythe, CA. South access to Blythe Intaglios. The Blythe Intaglios are a group of huge figures found on the ground near Blythe, California, about 15 miles north of downtown Blythe just west of U.S. Highway 95 near the Colorado River. The largest human figure is 171 feet long. There are a total of six distinct figures in three locations, including a human figure at each location and an animal figure at two locations The figures are believed to be between 450 and 2,000 years old. According to the Mohave and Quechan Indians, natives to the lower Colorado River area, the human figures represent Mastamho, the creator of all life. The animal figures represent Hatakulya, one of two mountain lions/persons who helped in the creation. Sacred ceremonial dances were held in the area in ancient times to honor the creation.	82.3	132.5
